

St. Mary's County Cemetery Project

Overview:

St. Mary's County's recorded history spans almost 400 years and the archaeological records of earlier inhabitants encompasses over 10,000 years. As land is taken to accommodate the growing population, it is essential to record what remains of these eras, which might be lost.

As the county's population expands, land is developed to provide housing, transportation and communication infrastructures, as well as commercial enterprises. It is essential that property owners be aware of cemeteries on their land.

The Historic Preservation Commission has begun a project to gather record information about the cemeteries of St. Mary's County, both private and those associated with religious institutions. The goal of this project is to document burial yards of St. Mary's County.

Methodology:

The attached database was build using many sources: journal articles, published inventories, historical records, and information provided by citizens, members of St. Mary's County Historical Society and the St. Mary's County Genealogical Society. A database of almost two hundred cemeteries has been recorded.

Requested Assistance:

This database is evolving as citizens provide additional information, suggest corrections, and/or provide information on cemeteries not listed. At the end of this notebook are forms that you can complete that will help make this database more accurate and/or complete. The data you provide by filling in the form will be included in the Cemetery Database, but the only information that will made available to the public will be restricted to: cemetery name, location, family names date range and also known as.

CEMETERIES OF ST. MARY'S COUNTY ABOUT THE DATABASE

CATEGORIES OF INFORMATION:

Cemetery:

Refers to the most recent name give to the burial yard. This name often has been changed over its history. Many private burial yards are known by the name of the parcel of land's name or the landowner's name. Several cemetery names refer to a specific person or family.

Location:

Can either refer to a postal address or a community.

Family Names:

This information was culled from informants, printed sources, site visits, and records at St. Mary's County Historical Society.

MHT ID #:

Information on many of the burial yard of St. Mary's County was recorded in Maryland's Historic Trust inventory. Using either printed copies of the inventory or Maryland's Historic Trust's website, one can view this report.

Date Range:

Dates are based on available information. A single date, i.e. 1872, indicates the burial date of an individual. A range of dates, 1834-1888 for example, indicates a number of burials within that range of time. A date followed by a hyphen, 1977- for example, indicates an active graveyard.

AKA:

Many cemeteries are known by several names, often family names or the location of the site. For example, Luckland is also known as Davis Burial Ground. and/or Barber's Quarter

Footnotes:

This category lists the known sources of informal about this particular burial yard. Refer to the Footnote page for a more complete citation.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION:

Printed sources:

St. Mary's County Memorial Library-Leonardtown has many of the references listed on Footnote page. The library also has an extensive genealogy library in its collection.

St. Mary's County Historical Society has vast resources available for researchers.

On-Line resources:

A vast number of websites provide information on cemeteries. Maryland's Historic Trust, Maryland State Archives, and Find-A-Grave are several of the sources used for this project. A researcher is challenged to deal with the overwhelming number of sources, some of which are of dubious veracity.
